

FEDERAL EXCISE TAX SERVICES

If your company incurs voice telecommunications expenses, you are most likely entitled to an excise tax refund. The Internal Revenue Code ("Code") specifically states that charges based on time and distance are subject to the excise tax. In recent years, the telecommunications industry has switched to time only as the basis for most of their charges, abandoning the time and distance requirement. The Code's rigid wording creates an opportunity to reclaim the excise tax paid on certain types of telecommunications service.

DMA's Federal Excise Tax Service prepares refund claims for federal excise taxes paid on telecommunications. You simply provide DMA's Federal Team with your telecommunications billing information and we will determine the qualifying usage, subtract any non-refundable items and generate the claim. This service is designed to recapture taxes that your company overpaid. Our professionals do it in an efficient, cost effective and non-intrusive manner.
